

JCU launched the enduring Statement of Commitment to the Elimination of Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault in 2018. The Statement declares the University's commitment to strengthen gender equality and play its part to create a safe and respectful environment.

In February 2017, JCU angred for the procedures, as well as the Horizontal type of the procedures, as well as the Horizontal type of the procedures, as well as the procedures as publicly released in September 2017.

A Broderick Review Implementation Working Group operated across 2018 to support the development, in the 149 (16)-121-13 (16)-13 (1

'Iswahian shearien tvoirt firaism Silytisct, messenger etc.

 Virtual walk-home location sharing with the Security Control Room in the cloud dashboard

- Suspicious activity reporting capability by email, photo, or video Information for sexual assault, mental health, counselling and disability services Direct access through the app to the Make A Report website for sexual assault and sexual harassment
- Chat capability where users can chat with the Security Control Room in real-time for assistance

JCU launched the

in Study Period 1 2022. The website is for Students who are T-4(re620 288 0

• 2019 - JCU hosted the Tears Tell Stories artwork. The art was created by Karen Doolan. Nina Funnell, anti-sexual assault advocate and author presented at The John Flynn College, and winner of 2017 Walkley Our Watch award, Bri Lee the author of Eggshell Skull, gave the Colin Roderick Memorial Lecture and Melinda Tankard Reist delivere(d) (2 (el)-8.1 (i)-80a(el)-8e)-8.1 (n2.62) with risk assessment for events. JCUSA Advocates assist students to connect with the university's support and reporting and complaint procedures as required.

The JCU Respect Student Reference Group comprises interested undergraduate and postgraduate students, including residential college students, who help develop and deliver relevant content and resources in Respectful Relationships workshops, some of whom organise activities in their own capacity. An example of the kind of resource created is the 'Who Am I' bystander video.

The key message for all staff and students is that they can talk confidentially with a Sexual Misconduct Officer about any matter that is causing concern – no matter how big or small the issue might seem. This ensures that responses can be victim-centred and trauma informed. Any person can talk directly with a Sexual Misconduct Officer, or a Sexual Misconduct Officer can provide advice and support to any Equity Contact Officer, Residential Assistant, or any other person, who might be supporting someone who is impacted. These key positions mean that people affected have a single point of contact and only have to tell their story once.

JCU provides a free and confidential counselling service for students and staff. Priority appointments are made available to students who may need support, and the University has expanded the availability of same-day counselling for students. JCU works closely with the specialist Sexual Assault Support Services in the community to provide inte p-0.8 (t) 5, 26 (o) 1.3 () t av ons